About Supporting Nominations.

As an evidence that the defection of some Republicans in this county from a part of the Republican ticket is a matter of concern and interest to Republicans all over the State, we publish an article from the Rutland Herald, in another column, and an extract from an article in the Burlington Free Press of the 26th. When Republicans, merely for private reasons, which actually do not touch the issues of the campaign, bolt some of the ablest and most useful men who are fairly nominated by their party, it is not surprising that anxiety should be felt in the party wherever such defection can make its influence felt. It is well, reasonable, right, and due to the cause, that those who have felt a spirit of opposition to any of the regular nominees in this county, thus far, should pause and give the causes of their opposition serious and candid thought—not in light of private feeling merely, but taking into consideration the good of the cause with which they are connected as of the first importance. In every campaign some one is nominated—and so long as men differ some one will continue to be—who is personally objectionable to a portion of the party, small or large. This is a natural and inevitable result of conflicting aspirations of men, and the consequent disappointment of those who fail to win the places sought. This difficulty is absolutely without any remedy which can remove it. It therefore results that the hearty support of any ticket composed of several names, is due to a spirit of compromise of personal feelings and wishes, for the public good, as that good may be secured by party action. Those who place the want of entire unanimity of feeling regarding a ticket as an objection in the way of supporting that ticket as a whole, use an argument, therefore, which ought to be useless in itself; for such unanimity cannot be made to exist, either now or in the future; and the argument, if given weight and importance once, may as properly be used against every man who by his nomination disappoints another, or who has any personal enemies. Therefore the first and foremost question which one should ask who really cares more for the success of the principles he professes than for his own personal gratification, should be, not, Does such a nominee suit me? but, Does such a nominee represent fairly the principles which I believe in? And on the answer to the latter question should his action depend.

Tried by that test there is not one existing reason why Republicans in Franklin County should not support every nominee upon their ticket, heartily and conscientiously. The nominees are placed upon the ticket, and elected, if at all, for the purpose of performing certain specific duties, and also to represent the principles of the party, and defend and advance them. Does any one believe that Mr. Barlow will not do all this faithfully and efficiently? He is an active man, and always has been, in every project which has for its object the promotion of the public good. This rule which his energy has vitalized, is the secret of his popularity, and also of the personal dislike of many men—for all live men have enemies. There is not a public institution in our town, perhaps not many in our county, which is not greatly indebted to him for its existence. When the war broke out money from his bank was advanced to promote the cause of the Union, and for that cause he was never besought in vain. Is that a sign of so-called Democracy? Does he stand, in this respect, where his Democratic competitor stands, who tore up subscription papers for Union flags? He advanced, for a long time, about $10,000 to aid the projects of our public schools in this town, and devoted his time freely, during a year, to aid in carrying out those projects; and our public school building is due to him more than to any other man. Does this look like being, as he is falsely charged, an enemy of our public schools, or of the system? The truth is, and it is well known even to those who are active in speaking to the contrary, that Mr. Barlow is and has been from the time when political action was made particularly a test of loyalty in this State, wholly and heartily and all the time on the side of the union cause, and with his accustomed energy and ability he has rendered the best of service. He has also, without regard to politics, been the friend and promoter of every improvement in our midst, from highway and sidewalk to Academy and Church. His faith in individuals and to the party has been unbroken; and his efficiency and ability are well known not only in our midst but through the State. The remonstrances, therefore, which reach us from other portions of the State, deprecating the opposition to his election, are only indications of the interest which Republicans, who are free from the local views which operate upon some here, have in the success of an efficient and faithful legislator, and the entire success of the party in this county—especially when success is with it only a matter of its own choice.

We earnestly request, then, that the question of heartily supporting the whole ticket may be examined in the light of the public good, and not in that of difficulties which result from private feelings, and the nature of circumstances; and we feel confident that the well-intending and conscientious men will compose such a majority as will redeem this county from the unenviable notoriety of being represented (2) by such votes as the one we have kept before our readers, given last Fall.

What Shall the Ballot Be?

The election is near at hand, and this is the last opportunity we shall have to hold a chat with our readers through the weekly TRANSCRIPT, previous to the verdict which is to be given for or against the regular ticket. We have endeavored for the past few weeks to convince every Republican of the importance of going solid for the nominations. "In union there is strength" and pride also, and our only hope of success, in this county and throughout the United States, is in pulling as one man, all together. One thing is certain, we cannot carry dead-weights if we would win; we cannot fritter away our strength in personal quarrels and local dissensions if we would succeed. Our ticket is completed for the contest and we cannot add to or take from it a single name. For self-constituted and independent candidates we have no abiding place, and Mr. Soule must bolster himself up with different stories in different localities as best he can. We don't intend to aid his election any more than the election of any other opponent of the Republican party, because he associates himself with them now, if he has not always at heart been there.

Through these divisions last year, resulted the defeat of Hon. Bradley Barlow, a thorough-going Republican, and the election of Victor Atwood, a straight Democrat to the Senate. Republican votes elected him; he could not have been elected without them. Was the last year's bolting profitable which resulted in the name of one man, and that one from this county, being placed upon the records of the Senate against the acts of a loyal Congress, in restoring the rights of a loyal people under the government, and to stand forever recorded there? The children of dead patriots may well cry out, shame!

We have the charity to believe, that the great number of Republicans who voted for such a man, did not expect his voice and vote would be so recorded, in the face of the loyal republicans of this county. Yet we are not surprised, in view of the evidences which he has given for years of the opposition that is in him, that he could cheerfully vote for such a measure. If the votes which were given him by Republicans were intended to have been complimentary, please excuse the county from such compliments hereafter. It is to be presumed that in many cases the votes were cast for him thoughtlessly, while in others, fraudulent votes were imposed upon Republicans by political tricksters. While we do not deny the individual right of any man to vote as he chooses, we would beg of you to continue no longer voting in this manner, or claim to be Republicans no more.

With personal quarrels we have nothing to do; for local banking questions we nothing care; that Hon. Bradley Barlow is a firm and steadfast friend of the Republican party we do know. As a man of intelligence and as a business man, this County should be proud of his residence among us; as a man true to the principles of the Republican party, and with decision of character, he is qualified to receive our votes. While he was a Democrat, as thousands of others have been who are now with us, he was true to that party. When the Southern wing of that party, aided by thousands of their allies North, fired upon the "stars and stripes," he could come out from the rottenness of Democracy and fall into line in the Republican ranks cheerfully, with our excellent candidate for Congress Mr. Smith. He furnished the money to fit out and start the old "Ransom Guards," the first company of troops for the seat of War, and with true patriotic blood in his veins, his course has ever since been unmistakable and consistent. While there has been steadiness in Mr. Barlow's political course, Mr. Atwood's career has been mysterious.

Mr. Atwood formerly acted in opposition to the Democracy; was educated at the school of Webster, Clay, and Seward, in their better days, and in growing up under the enlightened policy of the Whig party in Vermont, we naturally should have expected different things from him now. Why should he step over to the Democracy, and follow them in their hostility to National self-preservation—follow around with them in opposition to the honest restoration of a loyal Government, and the rights of loyal citizens under it, if he does not wish his antecedents forgotten? How different his course from that of Mr. Barlow. When Mr. Barlow's services were required in defence of his country in a national party of loyal men, he fell into our ranks; when the services of Mr. Atwood were required equally the same, he fell out, and to-day he is an exponent of Seymour and Blairism, with all of the old Rebels, traitors, and Copperheads joined together. Delightful company,—shall we support it next Tuesday?

The Story Business.

We have given some attention to a few of the many stories which are circulated against the Republican candidate for the Senate from this town, perhaps more than they deserved, for one and all are fabrications without any existence in truth, and ought to refute themselves with those who know Mr. Barlow. But people may believe things which are not true, as we often find; and it does no harm to contradict lies sometimes. The story that Mr. Barlow is at heart a Democrat, and that he has said he only wants to get the election this year, and then the party may go to—well, where coal is cheap—is one of these lies. This is all we need say of that story. Mr. Barlow is endorsed as a thorough and consistent Republican by men of character all over the State, who have had the best opportunities for studying his political character and noting his political action for years, especially while he has acted as a legislator. If Mr. Barlow was merely assuming Republicanism, such men would surely see through the pretense, and reject and expose his professions. We believe, in common with all who know him, that he is as a Republican above suspicion. It seems a little singular, and a very suspicious coincidence, that those who throw doubts upon Mr. Barlow's Republicanism are also engaged in vouching for Mr. Atwood's Republicanism, in the face of his war record and his vote against Congress last fall, and of his present political position. It is curious how much and what people can consent to swallow, when they shut their eyes and open their mouths. A young robin is not a fair example of them.

These gentlemen, who also falsely assert that Mr. Barlow has stated that he will be elected, if it costs him $10,000, do not seem to think it wrong to use money to accomplish their purposes, as they assert that he "shall be beaten at whatever cost." By this we understand that they will use all the money it may require to secure his defeat, though the amount should exceed $10,000. This is going on the principle that political virtue depends altogether upon who practices it—that what is, in their opinion, wrong on one side, has no limit of right on the other. This is a convenient doctrine, but it ought to be repudiated with its authors.

A View from the Outside.

The following article from the Burlington Daily Free Press, we commend to the attention of our readers. Not a paper, or a prominent Republican in outside of our County, but endorses Mr. Barlow as a sound Republican and an able and efficient legislator, and hopes for his election. When it is considered that such a man, or a Democrat, must be our Senator this year, we think that even very serious individual objections, if such exist, ought not to stand in the way of an answer loyal to the party, and encouraging to its friends.

The Free Press says:

It seems the millennium has not so nearly arrived in Franklin County after all. Time has developed two active bolts, one against the Republican nominee for Sheriff and in favor of Mr. Soule of Fairfax, who was Sheriff last year, but did not secure a re-nomination this; and one against Mr. Bradley Barlow for Senator, but of his opponent on the Democratic ticket, Mr. Victor Atwood. The bolt on Sheriff, however, we judge, will not amount to much, while that on Senator is absorbing the main share of interest and feeling in the County. We are sincerely sorry to see it, as a rule, the good reasons for bolting a regular nomination are fraud in the making of the nomination, and political unsoundness, personal indisputability, or gross unfitness for the office in the nominee. Neither of these reasons exists in the case of Mr. Barlow. It is conceded that he was fairly nominated; he is a square Republican, a gentleman of high personal character, and an able, experienced, and always influential legislator. Against him, and solely, if we understand the case, on account of the petty, and—to speak plainly, disreputable—strife of cliques and personal jealousies which kept the party in a turmoil in that county. Republicans are asked to vote for a straight out Democrat—a supporter of Seymour and Blair. This is a case in which there is no room for argument. It is enough to state it.

THE VERMONT ELECTIONS.—Vermont heads the list of Fall Elections. She votes on Tuesday of next week, and will be followed by California and Maine. If she does well, therefore, she will send a stimulating impulse to the Republicans of those States, which will be taken up and reproduced with augmented effect, until the influence of the Green Mountain Boys shall have made the entire circuit of the Fall Elections, culminating in the grand triumph of Gen. Grant in the Presidential contest. We trust, therefore, that our Republican friends in that State are fully alive to the importance of their action at the polls, and that now, as heretofore, they will not fail to completely match their energy.

We sympathize with them, too, for this reason, that they cannot enjoy the inspiring contact of "fellowmen worthy of their steel." The Democratic party of Vermont amounts to nothing—it can hardly keep up the appearance of a respectable contest. The Republicans, therefore, have to act from an inherent sense of duty and from an enlarged consideration of the requirements of the country. But these are sufficient. They teach that the practical duty now before the Vermont Republicans is simply to get out a full vote! Give us that, and a noble victory follows as a matter of course. Let Maine hear of that, and she will easily add a thousand or two to her majority for Chamberlain. Let all the Republicans of the Union hear it, and their efficiency in furtherance of the good cause will be immensely strengthened and advanced. Let the propagandists of the new revolutionary schemes hear it, and they will begin to feel that the people are awake and that the day of the rebel plotters has gone by. Let us have, then, by all means, a full Republican vote in Vermont at the coming Election. If steps have not yet been taken to bring it out in all sections of the State, let the neglect be repaired instantly. One week of thorough, energetic work will accomplish wonders, especially where the people are already ripe in sentiment. We entreat our Vermont friends to renew once more their own inextinguishable service to the cause of equal rights.—Boston Journal.

The Journal does not realize that there is one County at least, in the north west corner of the State, where, "if the Democratic party amounts to nothing," it has received heavy reinforcements from the Republican ranks sufficient, any how, to make the contest a lively one. Look out for split tickets.

Varieties.

The nine distinguished citizens who acted as pall bearers at the funeral of Mrs. Commodore Vanderbilt, last week, represented nearly $20,000,000, an average of over $2,200,000 of course. A man at that funeral worth less than half a million would have been an intruder.

The bronze guns, appropriated by Congress to the Sixty Army Corps, have been cast at the bronze works, Philadelphia, into a full length figure of Gen. Seawick. The execution of the work is said to be good and the features quite perfect.

It is reported in New Albany that two men, brothers-in-law, had a difficulty, near Valonia, Jackson county, Ind., on Saturday, resulting in the death of one of them. The survivor was at once pursued by a mob, seized and hanged upon the spot. The names of the men are not given.

The Union Pacific Railroad has reached the 700th mile post west of Omaha. Passenger trains now reach 235 miles east of Sacramento.

Henry Clay, more than any man that ever lived in this country, was the idol of the people. He was five times a candidate for the Presidency. Of American orators he was the first whose speeches were published in a volume.

A supposed dead man was lying in his coffin at Norfolk, while the pall bearers were taking a brandy julep preparatory to starting for the grave, when he made such a noise that the coffin was opened and he astonished the group by rising and calling for a julep. He said he had been in a trance and knew all that was passing, but till he heard the glasses clink couldn't muster sufficient energy to break the thrall in which he lay.

Any person allowing Canada thistles to grow and mature upon his land in Illinois is liable to a fine of $75.

"How many feet long was the snake?" asked a person of a traveler who had just related a story of an encounter with a boa killed by him. "One hundred and ninety-two inches," was the reply; "snakes have no feet."

Feeling Baptist ministers for performing the sacrament of baptism is the newest thing in Philadelphia. A clergyman lately had a fifty dollar greenback for a service of this kind.

A soldier of the Seventh-eighth Highlanders fell over a cliff 100 feet high at Point Levi, near Quebec, on Thursday night, and was instantly killed.

It is said that the brain of Gen. Chas. G. Halpine ("Miles O'Reilly") weighed fifty-six ounces. This is six and a half ounces above the average size.

Laughter is seldom heard in new countries among women. Overtaxed strength drives mirth away in most cases, and seriousness, akin to sadness, prevails.

Reuben Sikes, of Bennington, in a recent fit of delirium tremens, chopped off the hands and feet of his infant child.

Special Notices.

Mississquoi Springs.

Ossunessburg, June 22d, 1868.

E. B. PECKHAM, Esq.,
Dear Sir:—I take the liberty to write you, asking how they are getting along at the Mississquoi Springs. Whether they are fitting up any hotels, and what the price of board is per week. Write me full particulars, all about the Springs. My health is first rate. I am as sound as I ever was. The cancer on my face is all off, and as smooth as it ever was. There are other parties that want to go to the Springs this summer. By writing you will much oblige me. Tell Mr. Wright I am much obliged to him for his courtesy in writing to me.

I am, Sir, your obedient servant,
JOHN E. TALLMAN.

The certificate you notice says that I commenced the use of the Mississquoi Spring water on the 7th of May, and continued till the analysis of the 16th of Spring; or I might have said more precisely till the last of October, at which time I used up the last of the water I had from you, which was a part of that bottled to me by you as I referred to October 5th at the commencement of this letter. I will say that I don't think I would have lived but a few weeks had it not been for the timely use of the Mississquoi Spring Water, and said so to your agent, and many others here last summer.

Very Respectfully, Yours,
J. B. CLARK.

ADDRESS TO THE NERVOUS AND DEBILITATED, whose sufferings have been produced from hidden causes, and whose cases require prompt treatment to render existence desirable: If you are suffering or have suffered, from involuntary discharges, what effect does it produce upon your general health? Do you feel weak, debilitated, easily tired? Does a little extra exertion produce palpitation of the heart? Does your liver, or urinary organs, or your kidneys, frequently get out of order? Is your urine sometimes thick, milky, or fleshy, or is itropy on setting? Or does a thick sediment rise to the top? Or is a sediment at the bottom after it has stood awhile? Do you have spells of short breathing or dyspnoea? Do your bowels constipate? Do you have spells of fainting, or rushes of blood to the head, or vertigo, or is the face pale? Is your mind constantly dwelling upon this subject? Do you feel dull, listless, mooping, tired of company, of life? Do you wish to be left alone, to get away from everybody?—Does any little thing make you start or jump? Is your sleep broken or restless? Is the taste of your eye as brilliant? Do you enjoy yourself in society as well? Do you pursue your business with the same energy? Do you feel as much confidence in yourself? Do your spirits dull and flagging, given to fits of melancholy? Do you do not get up to your liver or dyspepsia. Have you restless nights? Your back weak, your knees weak, and have but little appetite, and you attribute this to dyspepsia or liver complaint?

Now, reader, self abuse, venereal diseases, badly cured, and sexual excesses, are all capable of producing a weakness of the generative organs. The organs of generation, when in perfect health, are the most powerful of the body, and they are never at fault. They are never at fault in business; they don't become sad and discouraged; they are always polite and pleasant in the company of ladies, and look you and then right in the face—none of your downcast looks or any other means about them. I do not mean those inflated by running to excess. These will not only ruin their constitutions, but also those they do business with or for.

How many men, from badly cured diseases, from the effects of self-abuse and excesses, have brought about that state of weakness in those organs that has reduced the general system so much as to induce almost every other disease—alcohol, lunacy, paralysis, spinal affections, suicide, and almost every other form of disease, which humanity is heir to, and the real cause of the trouble scarcely ever suspected, and have doctored for all but the right one.

Diseases of these organs require the use of a medicine, HELMBOLD'S FLUID EXTRACT OF UCHU is the great Diuretic, and is a certain cure for diseases of the Bladder, Kidneys, Gravel, Dropsy, Organic Weakness, Female Complaints, General Debility, and all diseases of the Urinary Organs, whether existing in Male or Female, from whatever cause originating, and no matter how long standing.

If no treatment is submitted to, Consumption or Insanity may ensue. Our flesh and blood are supported from these sources, and the health and happiness, and that of Posterity, depends upon prompt use of a reliable remedy.

Helmbold's Extract of Uchu, established upwards of 18 years, prepared by H. T. HELMBOLD, Druggist, 594 New York, and 104 South Second Street, Philadelphia. Price, $25 per bottle, or 6 bottles for $150, delivered to any address. Sold by all Druggists everywhere.

None are genuine unless done up in steel engraved wrapper, with fac-simile of my Chemical Warehouse, and signed H. T. HELMBOLD.
